To the Editor of Womani's Page.

The Madam—Would you kindly publish a relige or elderberry wine soon as I have some it was wrong for me to be so happy?

'And Prudence—'' asked Betty Clark, who was peering into the narrow mirror over the table.

''Oh, Prudence—'' Allce frowned.

''I'd just as soon take the cot in your room Alice, 'I said.

''Very well,' answered Alice indifferently.

''Here's a letter for you'' and Betty hield out an envelope addressed in a rigid and painstaking hand. With a halirin I opened it.

'What's the matter?'' questioned Alice.

Sliently, I handed her the letter. Then I sank down in the big chair by the window. I felt a grateful sense of relief; these two friends would share my problem—would help me to decide what courses I should take, after reading the letter.

Neatness Fashion's Fundamental

SIMPLE, isn't it? Well, that's the reason this little summer frock is so reason this little summer frock is so attractive, and after all the wise woman sees many advantages in the simple summer frocks aside from the fact that they are at present fashionable—for the fundamental principle of correct summer attire is to create the impression of neatness and to look always spick and span. While a soiled summer frock may feel as cool as a clean one, certainly one does not feel fresh and clean, and there is nothing that creates so bad as impression on the observer on a hot sultry day as a soiled summer dress. Especiative is this true when the garment is a fuscy affair, heavily trimmed with ruffles or lace.

There are many ways to be economical and we are all making a study these

There are many ways to be economical and we are all making a study these days of thrift, and many are misunderstanding just what it does mean to be "thrifty." There are women who have been thrifty all their lives and we have admired them and said they had good taste because these women always seemed to have just the right kind of clothes for the right times. To be sure, it may be that such women have good taste, but if we only take the trouble to analyze their methods, we would more often find that they have "common sense"—a rather crude and old-fashioned expression, but exactly what every one of us should practice these days.

Common sense would tell you that if your allowance was very limited, simple clothes of unobtrusive coloring and tubbing qualities should be selected. This is the reason that today I selected this little frock of white creeped chine. The skirt of this dress is straight, slightly fulled at the waist line and has a deep hem. A pocket is placed in each side of the skirt and finished with a narrow plaiting of the crepe de chine. The bodice is on the shirtwaist order, with the fronts tucked and decorated with plaitings. The large collar and cuffs are also finished in like manner.

The washing qualities of crepe de chine are too well known to need any comment. However, should the white material he boiled by accident, or if washed dozene of times, it is likely to turn slightly yellow.

Adventures With a Purse

FOUND TODAY Sheer organdle frocks.

THIS year, your summer wardrobe is not complete if it does not include at least one frock of sheer organdle. If you have not already added one, now is the time to make your purchase. I saw some adorable little organnie frocks today, in various colors, pale green and pink being among them, but the one I liked best is white, buttoned up the back, with a narrow pleated frill finishing the rounded neck and the sleeves. There is some of this frilling on the skirt, too, and at the waist a few ends of old rose velver. velvet gave just the touch of color needed. One of those new white organ-die hats, or a black picture hat, would certainly complete such a fetching contume, and the dress can be had for $5.

Kerosene Is to Be Scarce

The United States Government is now discouraging the burning of midnight oil, for it is announced that the supply of kerosene oil will run short next winter. Every user is enjoined to do his part toward making every gallon do full war duty by giving forth its full measure of light and heats and saving can be accomplished only if good care is given lamps, lanterns, heaters and stoves.

The director of oil conservation of the United States fuel administration issues these rules for fuel-oil saving:

First Keep all lamps and lanterns clean. Let the light out; don't confine it behind smoked and dirty chimneys. Second See that burners and wicks of all oil-burning devices are clean. Clean burners require less oil and give better lights.
Third Don't allow a lamp, lantern, heater or stove to burn a minute longer than is necessary. Don't light one you can do without. Fourth. Don't use coal oil for cleaning purposea. Hot water will do the work.
